

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present application is directed to methods and systems for improving the operation of transmissions for automotive vehicles, and in particular, the "factory installed" automotive transmission installed by an original automobile manufacturer. The methods and systems modify both the structural components and hydraulic circuitry of an original automotive transmission to adjust applied pressure and shifting patterns to improve the efficient operation of the automotive transmission.

10081605-022102